How Romans Took Their Food. The Romans reclined at their banquets on couches, all supporting themselves on one elbow and eating with their fingers from dishes placed in the center of the table. Each was supplied with a napkin, and knives were used, though it does not appear that every one was supplied with one. Nothing, it would seem, could be more fatiguing than to partake of a repast in such an awkward posture or less conductive to neatness, it being almost impossible to keep the hands clean even with water supplied by the slaves or to prevent the food and wine from falling on the clothing and the draperies of the couch. This manner of eating disappeared during the dark ages so far as the couch was concerned, but the peculiarity of taking food with the fingers from a common dish continued afterward for more than 1,000

The Inspiring Bagpipes. It was at a seaside resort, and along the board walk came marching a band of highland bagpipers in full costume, They were tremendous fellows, but their music, to my untutored ears, was like the squealings of forty stuck pigs. By Order of the Board of Directors, HARRY BLODGETT, Sceretary. ATTORNEY GENERAL'S REPORT.

Would Have Foreman of Petit Juries Appointed by Court-Other Recommendations.

The biennial report of the attorneygeneral of Vermont for the two years ending June 30, 1910, has been issued. In the recommendations of Attorney-General Sargent he expresses a belief that in a trial of causes in county court, justice would be promoted by the appointment of foremen of petit juries by the court instead of election by the jury itself, as is the law at present.

To secure attendance of witnesses at trial courts he advises that the statutes be so amended that such witnessess may be required to give a recognizance with sufficient sure-

He also recom-The soda water crowd began to sit | mends that there should be legislation authorizing compulsory examination under oath by state's attorney of witnesses in state causes.

He would have added to the statute authorizing his office to employ detective service in securing evidence against respondents in criminal cases, authority to secure evidence in any matter in which the wedding at his house tonight, and he state is interested and authority to secure legal service in any cause when in the judgment of the attorney-general the interest of the state requires it. He adds that this authority is needed owing to the fact that in one or more counties every biennial term the state's attorney is either dishonest, incompetent or incapacitated by dissipation. The report contains a recommendation that the law be so amended that juries in municipal and city courts should consist of 12 men and such courts given jurisdiction concurrent with the county courts to branch of the Berkshire Street Railtry and finally determine all compare with theirs for arousing a desire plaints and information for violato die for one's country. The Norwegian Costume.

It is at church in Norway that the national costume is best seen. In the north the women wear short dark gowns, with fringed handkerchiefs the old Norwegian dress is often worn It consists of a short dark petticoat, with a stripe of bright colors, a full white blouse and a red bodice heavily embroidered, while on Sundays a quantity of silver pins and chains are added. The headdress varies according to the occasion and the wearer's social condition. The girls wear jaunty red caps, the married women a coif made of many folds of starched white linen, plaited over a wooden frame, and a bride wears a high metal crown curiously chased and set with jewels.

Pascal's Early Observation.

Blaise Pascal, who wrote a remarkable treatise on the laws of sound, was constantly observing the familiar occurrences about him even as a boy. When he was only ten years old he sat at the dinner table one day striking his plate with his knife and then listening to the sound.

"What are you doing with that plate, Blaise?" asked his sister. "See," he replied. "When I strike the plate with my knife it rings.

Hark!" Again he called forth the sound. "When I grasp it with my hand so," he continued, "the sound ceases. wonder why it is."

Gold Filled.

What does "gold tilled" mean? Probably most people who buy gold filled watches fancy that they are mysteriously impregnated with gold. The term is misleading. Gold filling consists in taking two sheets of gold, between which is placed a section of solder coated base metal. Burning of Leaves Halted. Dr. Henry Tucker, health officer of Brattleboro, was notified Saturday by Dr. Henry D. Holton, secretary of the state board of health, that the burning of leaves and refuse in the streets of the village filled the air with smoke, which is not only a nuisance, but injurious to the public health as it irritated the nose, throat and lungs. The state board recommends that prompt action be taken to prevent the nuisance and injury to the public health.

Two Negligence Suits. The writs in two negligence suits for big damages were filed Monday with County Clerk J. J. Shakshober against the Bennington & North Adams Street Railway Company, a way company. One of the suits grows out of the accident at the Vermont Soldiers' Home crossing in Bennington where on the evening of May 30 last a trolley car on the Bennington & Hoosac Valley branch hit sengers and a driver. The suit is brought by one of the passengers, Miss Katie Knapp of Bennington, who sustaineda broken arm, a broken nose and other injuries.. He was professore corrispondeate dell' Academia di Belle Arti, Florence, Italy, at the time of his death. The May number of the Vermonter contains a sketch of Mr. Mead and a cut from a picture taken in his Italian garden which was sent the editor of The Vermonter with the compliments of the sculptor.

The work of the sculptor was of a brilliant and lasting quality which easily placed him in the first rank of sculptors of distinction.

Governor's Reception.

Invitations are being sent out from Rutland for the Governor's reception and ball which will take place in the city hall, Montpelier, at 10 o'clock Thursday evening, October 27. The invitations are handsomely engraved and very prettily gotten up. The Vermont seal with flags in colors is embossed and makes a fine crest for the invitation.
